Class Song

There is a song that my heart would sing, Telling of homage only love can bring. Clear and impassioned its tones shall ring To the Class of Thirty-four!

Bright gleams a beacon across life's sea Guiding our bark wheresoe'er it may be Emblems of truth and of love e'er more, For the Class of Thirty-four!

CHORUS

We, full of love and loyalty, We'll shout and sing, our voices ring In grateful praise to dear old Alma Mater! Her glory will endure Upheld by faithful hearts and pure, O classmates all what e'er befall, We'll honor Nineteen Thirty-four for ever.

Senior History

On the fourth of September in the year nineteen hundred thirty, one hundred sixtyeight small green packages in various shapes and sizes were dropped at their destination —Claremont Central High School, in Hickory, North Carolina. These insignificant bundles had, of course, known where they were to be taken. Had they not been seven years in the Grammar School Factories where the first operations had been performed on the raw material to prepare them for this large factory? Here further shaping, molding, scraping, enlarging, filling, and many other changes were to be effected.

During 1930-31 there was a continual grind. Investigations were made at regular intervals to check the progress of these activities. The results showed that little by little the green was wearing off, and here and there a little brightness crept out, but all of these tests proved that much work was to be done. Mr. R. W. Carver, Superintendent of this giant mill, and all of his efficient foremen would have their hands full to prepare this material for market.

For a few months in the summer of 1931 the factory stood idle, during which period the material was temporarily set aside. This afforded opportunity to obtain the best results from the previous year's work.

Again in the fall of 1931 the great factory was in operation with all of its speed and force. Day after day, hour after hour, the grind went on. Wheels turned, engines throbbed, and the little green packages had been hammered, rolled, or molded into such attractive shapes that they were hardly recognizable.

When in September, 1932, after another period of idleness the mill workers once more took their places at the machines, the one hundred sixty-eight original pieces of material had been decreased by cutting until only one hundred twenty-five were left. But the efforts of the workmen were now bearing fruit with such excellent results that this year was marked by the marvelous exhibit of these wares together with the 1933 shipment.

Then came the final year of preparation—the period for refining and finishing. Work now consisted of touching up rough corners and surfaces, applying veneers and varnishes, and finally getting ready for the shipment. The annual display this year was even more gorgeous than that of the previous year.

Finally the important event arrives, and the packages must be marked for their destinations. Now it is learned that some are to be sent on for still further completion before they are ready for market, while others are already completed and will pass into daily use where this four-year period will prove to be their greatest asset in giving real service to the world.

Class Prophecy

"Yoo-hoo!" I heard, through my Mars speaking tube, a familiar voice saying, "Come on up, I've finished."

I jumped into my 1950 model rocket-ship and in 15 minutes I was beside my friend, who had recently gone to Mars to complete his microscopic telescope, with which he could see life on other planets as clearly as if they were ten feet away.

"Take a look," he said.

I peeped through, after having focused it on Hickory, N. C.

I was turning the lever aimlessly about when suddenly it became focused on the familiar figure of John Garrison, editor-in-chief of the Hickory Daily Record. John was reading a telescoradiogram from Fred Hamby, editor of The Greensboro Daily News. It said that he had just received the news from Charles Abernethy, star reporter, that Helena Hill had been elected the first woman president of the U. S. on the Sociali-demorepublicat ticket, by a majority vote of one hundred million. She had appointed her cabinet and among the members were Bill Simmons, secretary of planetary Relationships and Vernon Dietz, secretary of technoscobiological Research.

Next I saw Lenoir Rhyne College as the greatest institution of learning south of the Mason-Dixon Line. The college had become famous since William Schaeffer had accepted the position as president. Under his leadership L. R. had taken away the enrollment of all surrounding colleges and now the College had a total enrollment of 50,000 there being 15,000 Seniors. This large number was probably due to the highly educated faculty. All held Doctors Degrees from Europe's leading institutions.

The faculty was composed of Iona Campbell, head of the Latin department, and ten assistants, among them the familiar figures of Martha Setzer, Helen Hunsucker, Alice Lanier, and Fabian Yount. Each was ably assisted by five secretaries, some of whom were John Henry Suther, Alice Briley and Edith Deal.

Head of the Science Department was the most famous woman scientist of all times, Martha Watson, with assistants D. C. Helton and Ned Euliss.

In the Athletic Building I saw Coach Jim Espey lecturing to his 500 first-team centers, and several hundred substitute centers. His assistant coaches were: End-Coach Frelan Broome, Tackle-Coaches Dick Abernethy and Terry Shell, Quarter-back-Coach, William Norris and Half-back-Coach, Frank Miller.

As I saw no more of my old schoolmates, I turned the dial to Detroit and there was Loyd Whitener, President of the Whitener Stratosphere Cosmic Ray Ship Co., and Phil Barringer, Vice-President, with Managers Garth Friday, Raleigh Frye, Zack Hollar, Bryant Huffman, Joe Brannock and many others.

I quickly turned the dial to see the cause of the confusion across the street. I soon learned that the fifth annual Anti-Husband Convention was in session, with Minnie Fowler presiding. Some of the most important members were: Jean Setzer, Helen Shell, Margaret Little, Lavenia Kennedy, Margaret Mahaffey, Nellie Carpenter and Virginia Gilbert. The meeting was then broken up by the police squad as the violent speeches against husbands were disturbing the whole city of Detroit. Among the sergeants in the police squad were George Brown, Jay Perkins, Jack Wise, and Ben Norris. We followed the squad cars to the midnight court where Judge R. K. Harris was presiding. The Anti-Husbanders were ably defended by lawyers Dudley Stroup, Ramsay Hall, and Marvin Hathcock. Needless to say, with these brilliant lawyers, they won the case.

I turned the right-hand lever and a large building, which was on the outskirts of Detroit, came into view. This was an extensive Art School owned by Evelyn Payne, famous painter of the Jupitarian insects. Associated with Evelyn was Helen Shirley, creator of the Universal League Painters Union, and founders of the painters' theory of relativity, Edna Propst and Juanita Houser.

My telescope next became focused on Madison Square Garden where an unusual event was taking place. The boys' motorcycle polo team was playing the girls' team. Much to my surprise I knew some of the members. On their 1951 model Harley-Davidsons were Hugo Gilbert, Walter Hefner, Hal Huggins, Clive Laney, and Charles Leach. But on their last year's model Indians, Marjorie Burns, Frances White, Pansy Phillips, Lois Forbes, and Louise Bowman, won the game. The results of the game, three-fourths to one-half, were being announced by Frank Leach over the Universal Broadcasting system.

While scanning the highway from New York to Paris I saw Beatrice Boyd in her old 1933 V-8 model Ford, and trailing far behind I saw Margaret Henderson and Edythe Townsend in their model T relic.

In Paris I saw directors Sara Williams and Beulah Gaither very much excited over the recent success of their Paris review. The stars of the review were Dorothy Morell and Harold Flowers. I recognized in the chorus, Virginia Gambill, Josephine George, Irene Drumm, Mary Kate Rockett, Harold Poovey, and Harold Punch.

Continuing my exploration of the earthly regions I happened upon a big steamer whose captain was Cecil Barger with Henry Brown, chief engineer. Co-pilot James Carpenter was pacing the deck and yelling for more steam. First mate J. P. Miller was preparing to take off in one of the ship's airogyroscope planes to determine the latitude and longitude by taking a bird's-eye view of the setting sun.

Changing my point of focus to Central Africa I next viewed MaeWright and Dorothy Frye big game hunting. Mae had just bagged a big tusker, and Dorothy had just slain a herd of tigers. Sophia Abernethy was at that moment being crowned queen of a pigmy tribe. The ceremony had become so boisterous that Mae and Dorothy were forced to quit the region. Five miles to the south Thomas Bishop, who had been trained by Tarzan of the Apes' great grandson, was conducting his weekly physical culture class for henpecked New York business men. Among the health seekers were Wilburn Danner, Bert Hutton and Fred Jones. Bert had just finished falling out of his tree for the fifth time and the monkeys were giving him the horse-laugh.

Becoming hysterical I turned to Cuba in order to see some excitement and, as I expected, a revolution was in progress. Boyce Deal had just been inaugurated the 999th President since 1933 and General Oscar Huffman was attempting to overthrow him.

Class Prophecy-Concluded

Just decorated for bravery in action were the foremost rebellionists. Looking a little closer I saw that they were Dorothy Isenhour and Lucille Keller.

With the help of the Professor I turned to Australia and saw Helen Keever spending the last "two bits" of Uncle Bim's fortune which she had inherited. She was buying a concentrated roast-beef dinner pill from Grace Benfield who was the biggest food manufacturer in the world. Incidentally, she bought her foreign produce from scientific agriculturalists—Ruth Cline, Rosemary Bogle, Margaret Frye, Hazel Fulbright, and Gladys Fox. Suddenly I saw a queer looking animal, but studying it carefully I discovered that it was a hypo-kangaroo, the only one of its kind left, which was owned jointly by Gregg Rhodes, Donald Propst, and Ernest Paige.

Owner of the newest atom-busting factory in Australia was Clarence McCray with operators Earl Yount and John Witherspoon.

I decided to return to my dear old mother country, the U. S. The first thing that caught my eye was Billy Wentz creating a new cartoon for his series of comic strips. He pushed a little button and in skated two of his inspirational models—Gertrude Veasy and Mabel Hunter—who were trying out their newly invented nongravitational skates.

Wishing to take a close look at the West, I turned to Ibuckum, New Mexico, where I observed the last horse ranch left in the world. This was managed by the champion bareback riders, Carrie Miller, Betty Jane Miller, Eunice Sigmon, and Emma Thomas.

Suddenly I heard a voice through the Professor's earth speaking tube, telling me that my concentrated dinner pill was evaporating and that I had better hurry home. I bade the Professor good bye, told him to "come up to see me some time," thanked him for a pleasant evening, jumped into my rocket ship, and hurried home.

Senior Class Will

We, the Class of 1934 of the Hickory High School, County of Catawba, and State of North Carolina, being of sound and disposing mind and memory, and realizing that we must part with sundry honors, talents, looks, and emotions, do hereby pronounce this our last will and testament.

1st. We hereby bequeath to our beloved principal our affection and respect for his careful guidance for four years over the storm-tossed sea.

2nd. To the faculty we hereby bequeath the fond memories of our most brilliant class, and wish to express our most tender and sincere sympathy for the loss which they are about to experience.

3rd. The individual Seniors, each having valuable possessions, do hereby bequeath them as follows:

I, Charles Abernethy, will my Senior dignity to Richard Patterson.

I, Gladys Fox, bequeath the merry twinkle of my blue eyes to Winifred Bryan.

I, Edythe Townsend, do grant to Miss Gold my privilege of giggling at any time, any place, or under whatsoever circumstances I see fit.

I, Bill Norris, will my curls to Rusk Henry.

I, Jack Wise, do will my ability to drive worn-out cars to Jimmie Williams.

We, Joe Brannock and Vernon Dietz, leave our unassuming ways to J. D. Thomason. I, Ned Euliss, do will my toothpick figure to Charles Henry.

I, Garth Friday, bequeath my trips on the bakery limousine to Hershel Starnes.

We, Hugo Gilbert and Hal Huggins, leave our positions on the athletic teams to anyone who can hold them.

Marvin Hathcock leaves his opportunities to ride on the ambulance to Mr. Hayworth.

I, Oscar Huffman, bequeath my willing manner to Jack Rollins.

I, Walter Hefner, do will my ambition to make 40 miles per hour in a certain "T model" to Harold Smith.

We, Edith Deal and Betty Jane Miller, leave our art of staying quiet and making good grades to Elizabeth Pope.

I, Beulah Gaither, bequeath my dancing ability to Eleanor Henderson, hoping that she will be as graceful.

We, Harold Punch and Albert Huffman, grant our power of making good grades to "Buddy" Lyerly.

I, Gregg Rhodes, will my title of the smallest Senior to "Billy" Ford Kennedy.

I, Fred Jones, will my capacity as a ladies' man to Ralph Pitts.

We, Cecil Barger and Wilburn Danner, bequeath our quietness to Judson Parlier. I, Sophia Abernethy, do will my limitless talking capacity to Peggy Leonard.

I, Mary Grace Benfield, bequeath my knowledge of English to some poor Freshman who needs it.

Senior Class Will--Continued

I, Lucille Keller, do hereby will my great curiosity to Aileen Huffman.

I, Margaret Mahaffy, leave my record of inevitable lateness to 12:30 classes to Ruth Drumm.

I, Margaret Frye, bequeath my ability to ask unnecessary questions to Mary Haney.

I, Helen Hunsucker, do will my mischievous pranks to Ellen McFall.

I, Raleigh Frye, do will my timidity in the presence of ladies to George Lyerly.

I, George Brown, leave my power of argumentation to Howard Yount.

I, Bert Hutton, leave my unfailing record of always getting caught when disobeying rules to Conrad Fritz.

One blithe September day a group of boys and girls boarded a school bus to begin a four-years' journey over the Road to Higher Education. We had hardly started when we were forced to stop and pick up a little fellow, Conway Yost, who had fallen out of the bus of the Class of '34.

Our first trouble came in the tunnel of Freshman Ignorance, but soon we emerged into the light and were able to find our way about easily.

On and on, up and up, we wound our way thru the dense thickets of first-year Latin, forded the treacherous waters of Algebra and crossed the dull monotonous plains of Freshman English.

The next year's travel was less difficult altho some of us encountered a new hazard, History, which we passed after a hard fight.

And now at the end of our third year we have only one more lap of the journey to complete before we reach our destination. Each year we have lost many of our friends, but these have been replaced by hitchhikers whom we found at intervals along the road. The teachers have made the way less difficult by their guidance and their friendly cooperation.

For some the trip may have been dull and tiresome, but most of us have found beauty along the wayside and happiness in the companionship of our fellow-travelers.

always remember me as a fellow constrate and a fining Divise you lack is the future.

HISTORY

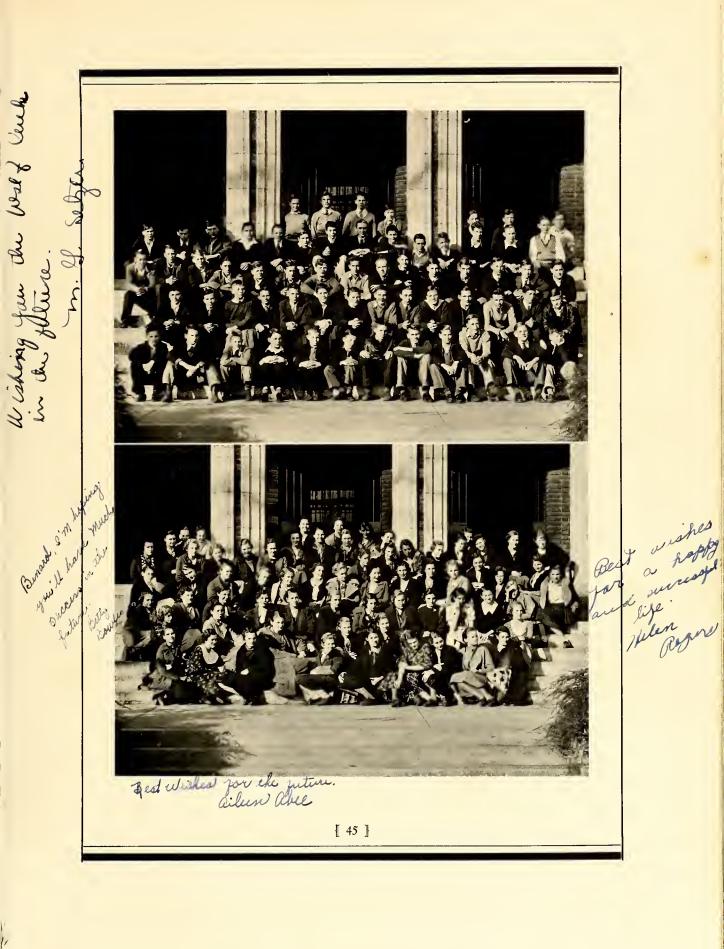

It was with a feeling of relief that we entered upon our second year in high school. No longer could we be termed little ignorant Freshmen, for we had attained to the noble standing of Sophomores. Really, we felt that much consideration was due us, especially from the poor little new students who were darting from room to room in their effort to become familiar with our building and our system.

We entered Hickory High in a body of about one hundred and eighty-six students. Our officers were: John Walker, president; Joe Hardin, vice-president, and Mary Ann Cooke, secretary and treasurer. Many of the Freshmen took part in the Dixie Minstrel and also helped in the Junior-Senior Banquet.

Our class this year consists of one hundred and forty-four students under the leadership of: President, Jean Williams; vice-president, Mac Teeter; secretary and treasurer, Melford Gaither, and class adviser, Mrs. Tankard.

—JEAN WILLIAMS.

HISTORY

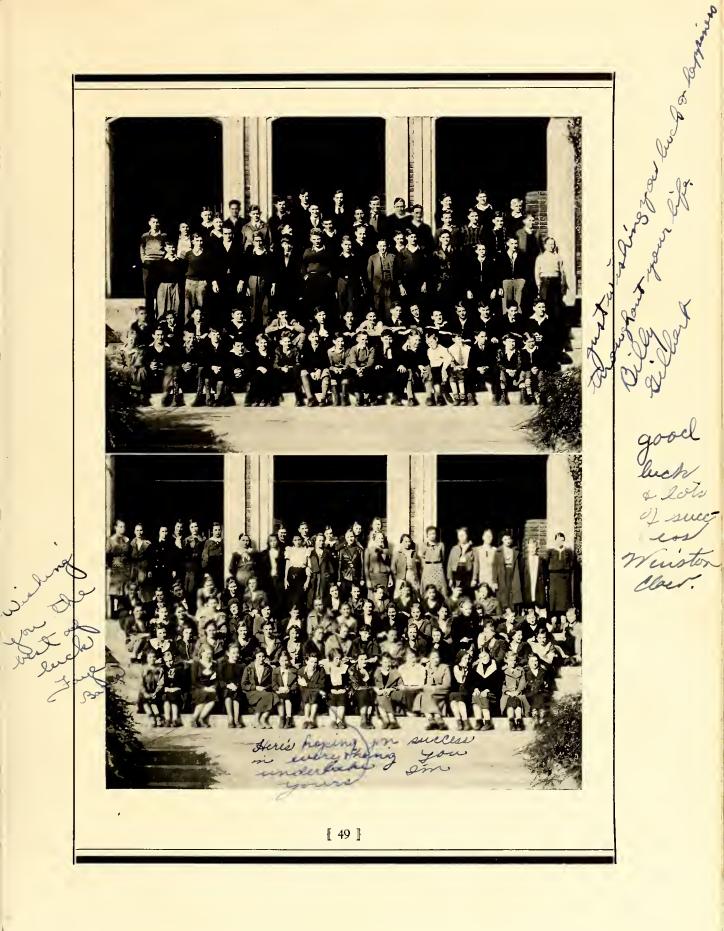

It would be quite unusual to begin the history of a Freshman Class without referring to it as being green. However, we shall pass over that part of the history to mention the more important phases of our first year at High School.

The first thing we did was to adopt the custom of taking the colors and flower of the Senior Class of the past year. We hope that this custom will be continued in the future years.

We expect great things from the Class of '38.

1221 Elm Street, Ніскову, N. С., Артіl 18, 1934.

Dear Mary:

Oh, I've ever so many things to tell you! Last night I had the most exciting time of my life! I do wish I could see you and tell you all about it, but since that's impossible, I guess you'll have to be satisfied with a written account of the Mardi Gras Festival which was held last night in honor of the Seniors.

The Juniors must have worked oh, so hard, because every Senior received such attractive invitations and honestly you would have thought that you were in a real street carnival if you could have seen the gymnasium. Each guest was given money (play-money of course) with which to buy favors in the stores along the streets. There were many drug stores and tea rooms where refreshments could be bought.

There were just loads of games and there was also music for those who wished to dance.

Probably the most entertaining part on the program was the Marionette Show, "Hansel and Gretel," and everyone was, of course, interested in the crowning of the Mardi Gras Queen.

After much gaiety the stores were closed and weary pedestrians returned home to dream of one of the most enjoyable festivities ever held at Hickory High.

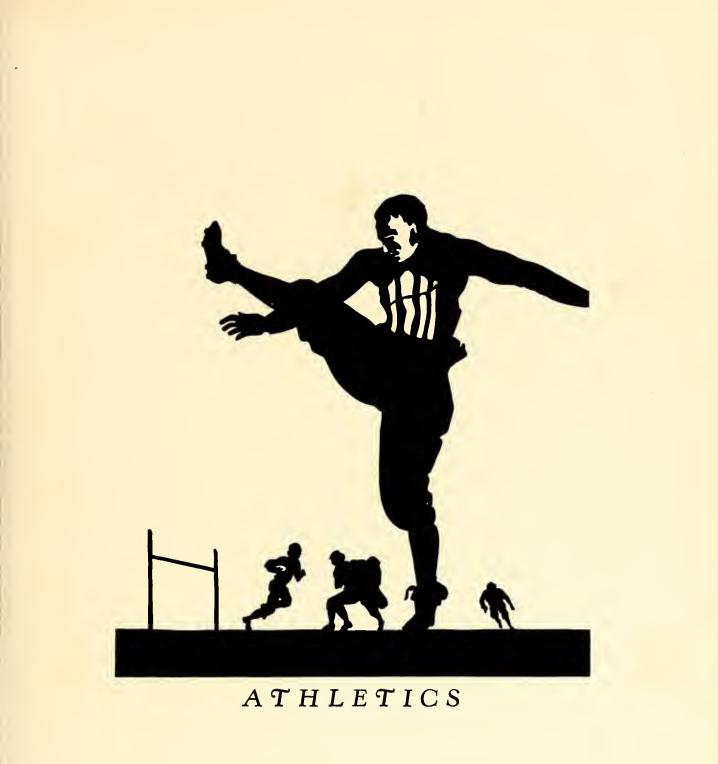

I really must stop now, and try to get some of this confetti (a result of last night) out of my hair.

Write to me soon.

Love,

CLARA.

Hail! Hickory High!

Hail! All hail to our Hickory High School,
And to her colors true.
We will ever more be loyal,
For we're proud of you.
And we'll sing a song of gladness—
Name thy glories o'er—
Hail! All hail to the Hickory High School,
For ever-more!

Chorus:

Then wave her colors ever, Furl her standard never, Raise it high and proudly cry, "We're Hickory High School girls and boys for ever." Our songs and praises swell, Let's all join hands and give a yell-For we'll fight with a vim that is dead sure to win, For Old Hickory High! Lift the chorus-speed it onward, Loud thy praises sing, As thy noble songs and daughters Make the welkin ring! Arm in arm we'll stand together, Thy honor we'll uphold, Hail! All hail to the Hickory High School, And the garnet and gold.

Guards: TERRY SHELL, HAL HUGGINS, CLIVE LANEY.

Centers: CAP. JIM ESPEY, MILES WHITENER.

Quarter-backs: ALT. CAP. "BUCK" PERRY, BILL NORRIS.

Half-backs: HUGO GILBERT, JACK BECK, FRANK MILLER.

Full-backs: CONWAY YOST, LAWRENCE CLINE.

[61]

JIM ESPEY-Captain

Rangy center, captained the Tornadoes through a successful season. His hard playing will be missed in the 1934 season.

ELWOOD PERRY---Alternate Captain The Tornadoes' fleet-footed half-back.

CONWAY YOST—Half-back Big, rangy and powerful; All-Conference halfback.

HUGO GILBERT—Half-back Running the ends was Hugo's specialty.

WILLIAM NORRIS—Quarter-back Bill is a clean, hard worker.

LAWRENCE CLINE-Full-back Lawrence is noted for his steady line plunging.

JAMES WILLIAMS—End All-Conference end was Jimmie's reward for his fine work for the Tornadoes.

H. A. HEAVNER—Tackle

H. A. well deserved his position as All-Conference tackle. He will also serve as captain in 1934.

TERRY SHELL-Left Guard

Terry showed he could give it as well as take it. He fought hard in every game.

HAL HUGGINS-Guard

Hal enjoyed playing a hard, clean game.

FRANK LEACH—Tackle

Frank showed unusual ability on the defense. He had plenty of pep.

[62]

FRELON BROOME—End Frelon's ability to snag passes gained much ground for the Tornadoes.

FRANK MILLER—Half-back Frank is little but he makes up for it in speed. Bernard 9 un

"ZIP" BECK-Full-back

I vert 74 Sho-

CLIVE LANEY-Guard "Cooter" played well his last year on the team.

MILES WHITENER—Center Miles came through to fill the center position "zip" when Captain Espey was hurt.

RAYMOND HANEY—Tackle Raymond is a promising tackle for next season.

ARCHIE HANEY—End Archie plays football with the same punch and fight that he uses in the ring.

CHARLES KANNAUP Charles showed up well his first year out.

DICK ABERNETHY—Tackle An injury to Dick's shoulder handicapped him greatly during the season.

LUKE HEAVNER—Tackle

Luke has three more years to keep up his fight for the Tornadoes.

BUDDY LYERLY—Manager

The capable manager of the Tornadoes through the season of '33.

11

Boys' Basket-ball

BILL NORRIS—Guard Bill captained the Tornadoes through a successful season. We think of him as a hard and clean fighter.

FRELON BROOME—Center As Tornado center, Frelon showed unusual ability at hitting the basket.

JIMMY WILLIAMS—Forward Jimmy has another year with the Tornadoes in which to keep up his good playing.

HAL HUGGINS—Forward Good pass work is needed in every game. Hal is a good ball handler and did much for the team's success.

RALEIGH FRY—Forward Raleigh had plenty of speed. He put all he had into every game.

JACK BECK—Forward Fast and shifty. Jack will be working for a regular position on the team next year.

[64]

Boys' Basket-ball

MILES WHITENER—Guard Miles' specialty was working the ball in.

BEN NORRIS—Guard Ben enjoyed a good game and did his part for the team.

CLIVE LANEY-Guard

We think of Clive as a good sport as well as a good basket-ball player. His car was used on every trip.

A. C. HUNTER-Guard

A. C. has two more years with the Tornadoes. He is expected to make a real basketeer in the future.

COACH MAX STEELMAN

We admire Coach Steelman for his unceasing work for the team. He enjoyed winning but could take defeat with a smile.

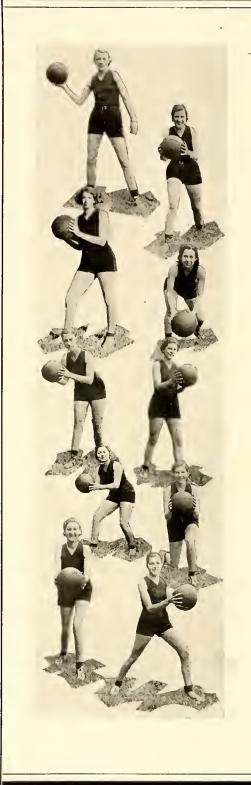

HERSCHEL STARNES—Manager

Herschel is a good manager and his work for the team was appreciated.

[65]

Girls' Basket-ball

CAPTAIN FRANCES WHITE has proved her ability to lead the team. She has been on the squad three years and plays either forward or guard well.

MILDERD ESPEY, Alternate Captain, possesses that strong Irish determination which forces her a step ahead of her opponent. She has played two years and is looking forward to another.

MARJORIE BURNS, our star center, is one we can always count on to drop the ball in the basket regularly. After two years on the squad this Senior will be sorely missed.

Whenever you want to find the ball in a game, just look for LOIS FORBES, she's right there. This is her third and last year on the squad.

PANSY PHILLIPS is rounding out her fourth year at guard. Her size helps her to hold her position with ease.

ELIZABETH WILLIAMS has shown herself capable of playing real basket-ball. She has been a member of the squad three years and still has a year left to play.

A Senior guard who has the pep to keep the team as well as herself on top is LOUISE BOW-MAN. This is her second year on the squad.

PEGGY LEONARD, junior guard, is completing her second squad year. She can certainly "stick" to her forward.

ELIZABETH POPE is a Junior forward who made the squad for the first time this year. She surely has her "eye on the basket."

"TOOTIE" BUCHANAN does not let her position as the smallest squad member apply also to her playing. She has been on the squad two years, and is another Senior who will be missed.

[66]

Girls' Basket-ball

MARTHA WATSON, Senior forward, is playing her second year as a member of the squad. She is a faithful member, and has played her position well.

GLADYS WHITENER has just finished her first year in basket-ball. She is a Sophomore and can use her height well.

NILAH LAIL, Sophomore forward, gained her first year's experience this year. She is certainly a good sport.

Another Junior guard is DORIS BOLCH. This is her first squad year, and she is expected to be right there next year.

JEAN WILLIAMS, Sophomore forward, is playing her first year with the squad and is a bet for a future star.

Though HESSE BROWN is small and quiet, she doesn't let that interfere with her basket-ball playing. This is her Sophomore and first year.

NINA HALL, Sophomore guard, is playing with the squad her second year. She is a good guard and is improving steadily.

MARY KATE ROCKETT was elected manager for the first time, her Senior year. She is just the one to do all the odd jobs, cheerfully.

COACH WALLING has certainly shown himself able to train championship basket-ball teams, three losses against 77 wins during a period of four years, proves this without a doubt.

Appreciation

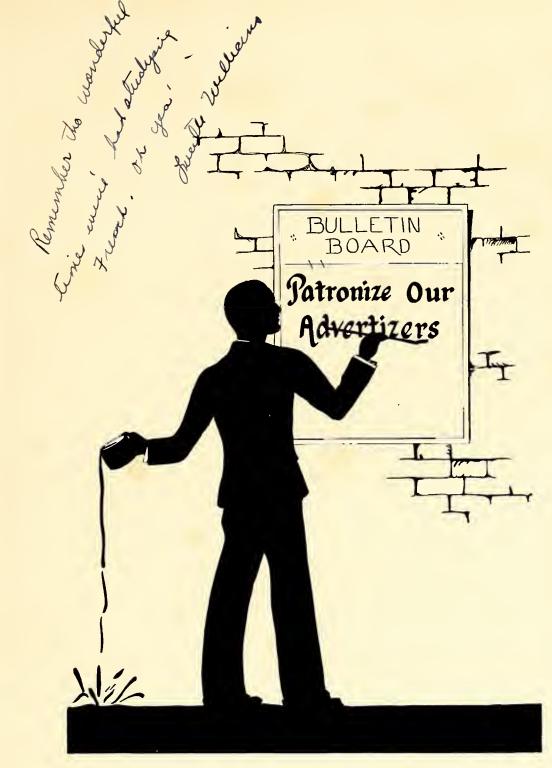

Again the silent wheels of time Their annual round is driven; Again in picture and in rhyme The Senior-lore is given. These finished pages represent Both toil and careful planning; Then let us give acknowledgment While through these pages scanning.

爱爱

To those whose time and thought and skill Have gone in this creation, The Log Staff here and now express Their real appreciation.
To publisher, and sponsors, solicitors, too,
To our Senior Adviser who knew just what to do.
(And for this breach of ethics, We humbly ask your pardon).
The girls would give a special vote of Thanks to Mr. Hardin.

愿愿

The careless, uninformed may think This book of little moment— Just pasteboard, pulp and printers' ink With here and there a comment. It may have flaws; it doubtless has If analyzed by section, But in the eyes of '34, it's very near perfection.

Hickory, N. C.

It is told of Mr. Finnegan that he died, and when he greeted St. Peter, he said: "It's a fine job you've got here for a long time."

"Well, Finnegan," said St. Peter, "here we count a million years as a minute and a million dollars as a cent."

"Ah," said Finnegan, "I'm needing cash. Lend me a cent." "Sure," said St. Peter. "Just wait a minute."

MR. HARDIN—"Do you want a large or small picture?" CONWAY YOST—"A small one." MR. HARDIN—"Well, close your mouth."

"It Pays to Shop at Penney's"

Penney's Extra Quality Adds Nothing to the Price!

Penney's is not in the business for today only. We expect to be the favored shopping place of your children, their children and their children's children.

That's why Penney's emphasizes QUALITY as the test of "Value."

That's why Penney's is more determined than ever to quote low prices—without sacrifice of quality.

That's why Penney's will be serving the nation with HONEST VALUES long after "price-shouting" competition has disappeared!

MISS McCомв—"We will take the life of Shakespeare tomorrow. Everybody come prepared."

"Now," said Miss Council to her class in English, "can anyone give me a word ending in 'ous,' meaning full of, as 'dangerous,' full of danger, and 'hazardous,' full of hazard?"

For a moment there was a dead silence. Then Gregg Rhodes raised his hand. "Well," queried Miss Council, "What is your word?" Gregg replied: "'Pious,' full of pie!"

Mr. Sox says that sedentary work tends to lessen the endurance. In other words, the more one sits the less one can stand.
